

times the German artillerymen were very persistent, keeping up this sort of thing until it got on our nerves. No, we were not afraid exactly, but were most uncomfortable. Time passes very slowly on such nights, and we could swear the next guard relief was sleeping overtime.

---

GERMAN INFANTRY ATTACK REPULSED BY COMPANY I.

Only one infantry attack was made against the 321st on this sector. That occurred at dawn, on the morning of October 9. This attack was successfully repulsed without any loss of ground by Company I. In preparation for the attack the Germans laid down a very heavy barrage, using 3,000 to 4,000 shells on a small sector, occupied at that time by Company I. The Germans came over in two waves, following closely behind the barrage. They came over prepared to make an attack with liquid fire, but Company I captured the liquid fire gun before it could be used. The fine way in which this attack was repulsed was largely due to the splendid work of Sergeants Sutherland and Yerbe, and Lieutenant Schilletter. Sergeant Yerbe first held up the attack with automatic rifle, killing three Germans. Sergeant Sutherland's heroic deeds won for him a citation for bravery and a D. C. S. This was the first D. C.